Afternoon Tea

Afternoon tea is a small meal snack typically eaten between 3pm and 5pm. The custom of afternoon tea originated in England in the 1840s.

Traditionally, loose tea is brewed in a teapot and served with milk and sugar. The sugar and caffeine of the concoction provided fortification against afternoon doldrums for the working poor of 19th and early 20th century England who had a significantly lower calorie count and more physically demanding occupation than most westerners today. For laborers, the tea was sometimes accompanied by a small sandwich or baked snack (such as scones) that had been packed for them in the morning.

Nowadays, afternoon tea has become a treat for everyone.

Wine Selection

Malta's wine industry collects more than 90 per cent of its bottles, reusing them time and again saving on recycling costs and co^2 emissions due to less transportation. As part of our initiative to reduce our carbon footprint, we try our best to stock most of our local wines bottled in reusable bottles. All wines marked with eco are bottled in reusable bottles. All other bottles are disposed of separately for recycling.
